Sikorsky Begins International Passenger Service

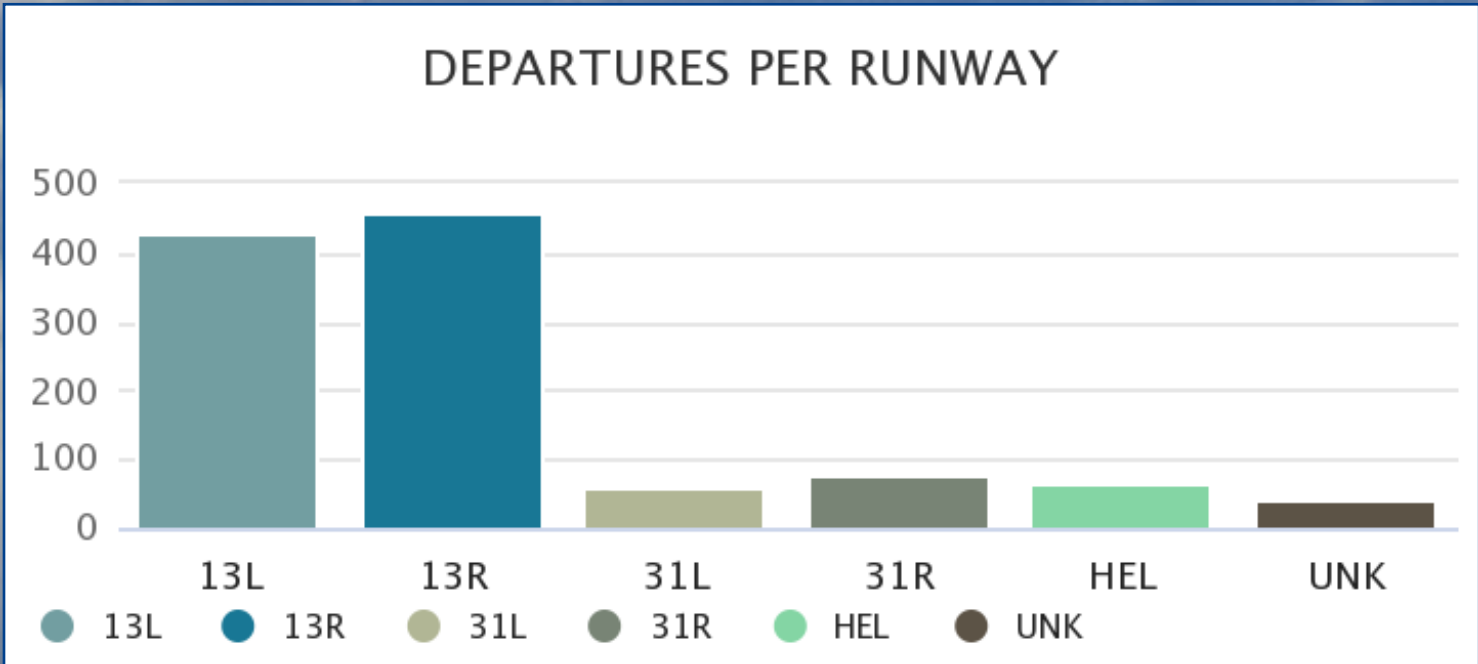

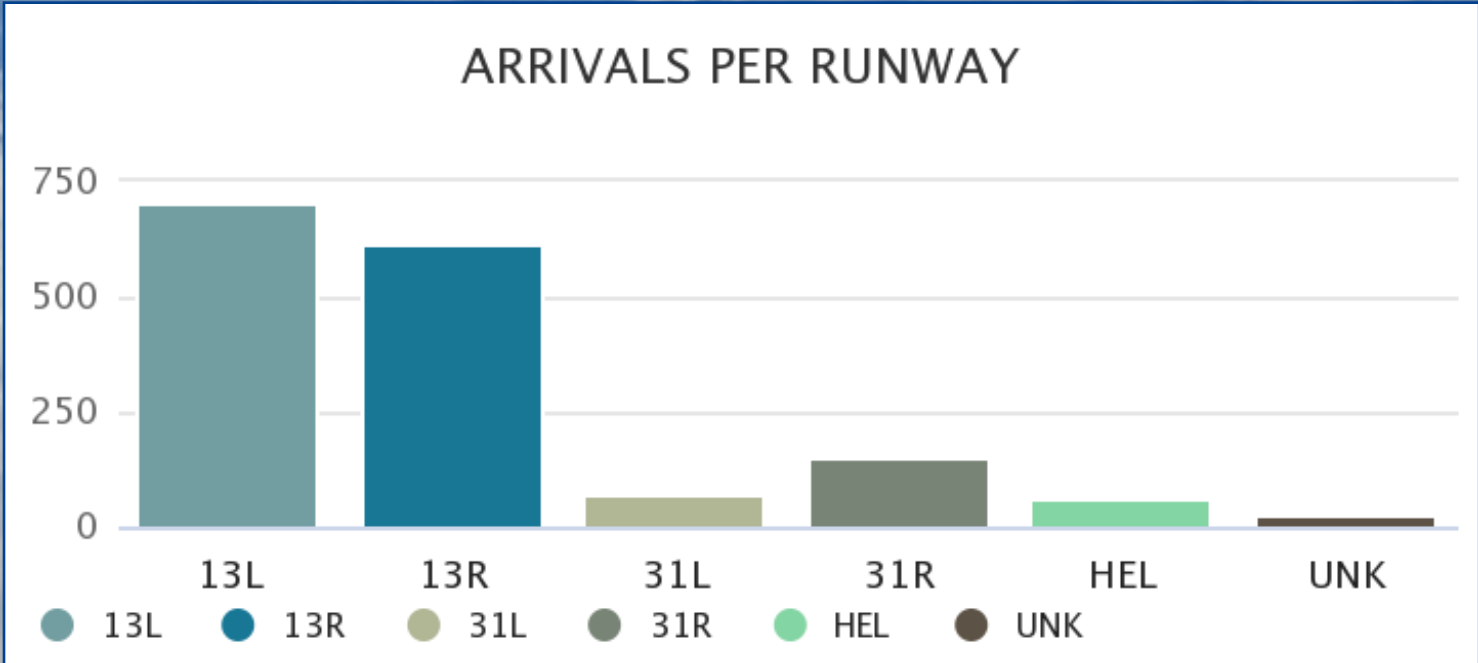

On September 1, 1953, SABENA began scheduled international passenger service flying the Sikorsky S-55, a commercial variant of the military H-19 Chickasaw which carries 8 passengers.

For just over three years, since 21 August 1950, SABENA flew mail from Brussels to Antwerp, Liege, and Turnhout using the Bell Model 47D-1.

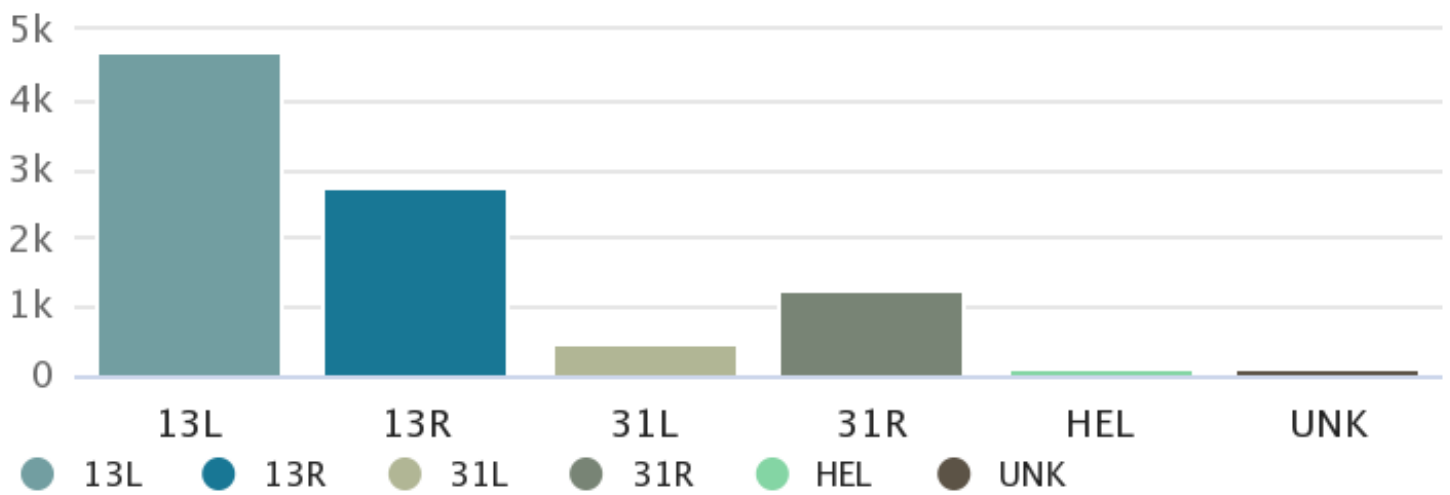

The Sikorsky Aircraft Corporation S-55 was flown by two pilots in a cockpit placed above the passenger/cargo compartment. The most significant design feature was moving the engine from directly under the main rotor mast to a position at the front of the helicopter. Installed at an angle, the engine turned a drive shaft to the main transmission. The engine placement provided space for a large passenger/cargo compartment.
